“ Christan was always around the squad made us laugh made us mad stood his ground fought his points and no matter what before to long he was man your my friend can't be mad long. I was just setting with my friend (christain) and had a deep conversation with him tears in his eyes because of some feeling he was having and stuff him and I had time to talk about he may have had a wild time but he sure had fun and brought a comfort to me to know him he will forever be on my mind his crossing my path ment alot I was shocked when I got the call that lil homie was gone . My heart heavy my mind lost could not wrap my mind around this my question was why why why . But as I listened to his voice on my phone he was excited full of joy in his voice he was happy he was gonna buy a truck one good step to move on from walking asking for rides he was going to have his own . After finding out this was an accidental death I felt a sense of relief he didn't mean it . He didn't want it that way . He was full of life and would be here today if he had not had that gun . But then God had a better plan he needed him for we are all God kids and being called home was Gods plan . Gonna miss you more then words can say . Your always gonna be in my squad circle as your Fairy squad mother . I love you my lil homie friend. Can't say goodbye but till we meet again .
