“ Gram was there for her family and friends, but she was also present. I will remember her love of reading, baking, crafting, Christmas, and those angels who are “so ugly they’re cute”. And especially, her love of our Cubbies.

“ Gram always knew how to make us feel special. I remember watching Cubs home games on WGN with her on summer afternoons. She would spread a plastic tablecloth on the carpet in front of the TV and give us tiny bottles of Pepsi to drink, and also a snack of some sort - popcorn, Pop Tarts, Ritz crackers, or cookies - served on the “fancy” paper towels. That is also when she taught me how to knit. When I was older, I'd sit in a chair or on the couch, allowed to use a coaster on the end table for my drink, which was always in a grown-up glass, and work on my current knitting project while she worked on hers, watching the ball game and hoping for a home run.

“ Gram always loved shopping at Marshall Fields. She and her sister went every year to shop for Christmas. One year, she took one of my sisters and me. We were amazed at how everyone who worked there seemed to know Gram and Auntie. And what they liked. And they were a force of nature going through that store! We laughed so much that day!!

“ I went to Pine Ridge today to visit Clara and a couple of other residents that I know. I was shocked to hear of Clara's passing, although I know she lived a long life. I met Clara many, many years ago at Lakeland Nursing Home. I was a volunteer and I found out that we both loved Bill Gaither and his Homecoming concerts. I had many of the concerts on VCR tapes. I would bring them to the nursing home each week and let Clara borrow one a week at a time. Over the years, we became good friends. She was like a mother to me.....giving me advice when I became a caregiver to my own mother. She was a real blessing in my life and I will truly miss her. I was sad when I read that her celebration of life will be on Thanksgiving weekend. I will be in Indianapolis that weekend with my daughter's family. But know how much she was loved and cherished by me.
