Among the things that Bell enjoyed were sewing quilts and crocheting, and listening to the TV and radio through her headsets. She attended the Yore Community Church and cherished the time spent with her church family. But most of all, Bell loved spending time with her family that included grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

She leaves to cherish her memory her children, Brenda Williams of Benton Harbor, Terry (Jo Anne) Williams of Little Rock, Arkansas, and Sharon

(Robert) Hoffman of Jacksonville, Arkansas; her 15 grandchildren, and her many great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. Besides her husband, Bell was predeceased by her daughter, Martha Rushing; her son, Jimmie; and her brother, Claude Easley.

“ Bell was a great friend and neighbor. I will miss solving all the problems of the world during our talks. I truly loved sharing my crochet projects with you, especially when you pointed out my errors. I know you will be watching me from heaven. Thank you for your love.
