“ Janet Flaugh was one of my “big” sisters. She was always ready to help us “little” kids, caring for us when mother was busy with her many chores. While in high school, Janet joined her sisters Barbara and Linda in their girls trio to entertain at high school dances and talent shows. She always loved working with children and devoted her career to teaching early education, spending several years as a supervisor before returning to the classroom.

Janet’s love of birds and flowers were the inspiration for her children, especially Erich, who became avid birders. I always loved going on bird walks with her as I learned at least one new bird every time, especially on visits to her winter home in Florida.

She was also an amazing cook and hostess. Dinner with the Flaughs was a treat. She and her husband, Joe, often welcomed siblings for family reunions at the farm in Coloma.

As one of her two surviving sisters, I know I can speak for our families that we will keep many precious memories close in our hearts.
