“ Oh Gosh, this is so hard for me; but it shouldn't be because I know you are up there with God. You are healthy as can be; stronger than me. You are jumping up and down with praise; while I'm down here wanting you here with me. How selfish am I. Some days, I feel like how can I go on with life, but I know you will not want me to live in decay. So I push my-self to snap out of it, and walk into my destiny; thats what you wanted me to live by. I know God have a strategy for everything in life; but He took one of the strongest woman I know; why? One day I will have the answer to that. That will be the day I will wake-up and see you smiling, holding my hands. You will tell me, "You are a child of God just as well as I; now come and take a walk with me grandchild together we will live in eternity with Jesus Christ." We both will cry... Love you and Missing you Grandma...
