“ I took her grocery shopping and we had been talking about her using a motorized scooter, but she was very nervous. One morning, she insisted on staying in the car while I went into Walmart and did her grocery shopping. I absolutely refused to leave her in the car. I convinced her to try the scooter. It was great!! She ran into the end of an aisle, almost backed into another woman! Once she figured it out and how fast it would go she would giggle! She actually enjoyed grocery shopping again! Love you Nana!
