“ I still remember me and dad going to Indianapolis 500 time trials. We got soaked sitting waiting for the light to turn so we could get back to where we were going to camp. By the time we got back there it stopped raining we were soak and wet ready to have a beer so that's what we did. Dad I'll never forget you I will love you till they lay me to rest. Weight not have always seen eye to eye I loved you and respected you and even though sometimes you didn't think I was listening to you I was. So I can't make my self say good bye so I'll see you later old man. I love you always . Love your son Brian Snyder.
