“ I was so glad that Sandi and I had the week together in Iowa in August, before she got sick. I treasure that memory along with all the other things we did together. When we collected all the material to put together the Pier with the sea gulls and Sandi found thick rope to put around the poles that Curt cut at different lengths. It went well with the lobster trap that Aunt Momma Gene brought from Canada. I think of her every time I look at that pier on my lawn. There was the time we stayed at Shantel's overnight and our silly slumber party that night. All the things she made for me for Christmas gifts that are my treasures. The trip, when I drove out to California with her when she moved and then she took me to the airport and I flew home. So many things remind me of her and the good times that are too numerous to mention. I love you Sandi and I will always miss you, Virginia
